By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Staff Writer

A tentative $2,843,028 budget for the 1973-74 school year was accepted for public display by the Madison Board of Education Thursday night.

The proposed new budget is $221,347 higher than last year's budget of $2,621,681 and predicts a deficit of $11,097 in the educational fund and a deficit of $30,577 in the building fund.

All other funds predict surpluses except the special education fund where the estimated revenue matches the budget figure.

The new budget calls for $2,411,836 for educational purposes, up from $2,350,740 in last year's budget. Estimated revenue into the fund this year, including cash on hand at the end of last year, totals $2,440,825.

The new budget provides $153,064 for the building fund, down sharply from $271,515 in the previous year.

A surplus of $38,473 is anticipated at the end of the 1973-74 school year in the bond and interest fund.

Revenue and available cash in the transportation fund total $56,889 and the fund budget for the school year is $45,560, leaving an anticipated surplus of $11,329. Last year's budget was $59,000.

Laborers reject pact, teachers negotiate

Hopes for a settlement of the Laborers strike and the resumption of highway work in a 12-county area which includes the Quad-Cities were shattered yesterday as members of the Southwestern Illinois Laborers' District Council rejected a tentative pact with the Southern Illinois Contractors Association.

The strike has continued since Aug. 9. Demands for double-time for overtime rather than the present time-and-a-half overtime provision have been the chief block, according to Federal Mediator John Canestraro, who has been notified of the stalemate.

A compromise agreement was reached Friday between negotiating teams for the Laborers and the SICA but was rejected yesterday.

Laborers in portions of Madison and St. Clair counties where double overtime pay already is being given by contractors, including the local area, also are striking against road projects, "because we are covered under the District Council agreement," a spokesman said.

A stalemate is continuing in another local strike as negotiators for N.L. Industries (National Lead), Hoyt Plant, 16th Street and Cleveland Boulevard and United Steelworkers of America Local 6496 failed to iron out disagreements at a three-hour meeting with a federal mediator Friday morning.

A union spokesman said the workers demand for a cost-of-living provision is the main issue. "The company has been unwilling to budge on its offer itself and give us an acceptable date to roll back to, we might as well go down fighting."

An area service station dealer summed it all up in one sentence. "I don't want to jeopardize the people (the public) who are feeding us, but we just might be forced into a situation where if they (the government) cut off our living, their cars will run out of gas."

of six weeks ago," Steve Lelik, president of the local, said.

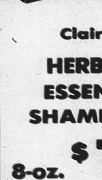

He added the union has tried to negotiate and has dropped its demand for removal of a no-strike clause in an attempt to reach agreement. The strike

Palchiff said Consolidated Aluminum Corp. (Consalco) reportedly is paying a portion of its taxes under protest into an escrow account which will decrease cash until the district's total balance has dwindled to $78,997.

Consalco reportedly is protesting its assessment and the school district's levy. The city of Madison and Venice also will be affected by the company's protest, he added.

Board Treasurer Ray Kozielec reported he expected about $150,000 immediately from the tax collector as which the main problem is one of inflation. Steroid drugs are excellent treatment for conditions like the poison ivy; they cut down on the inflammation and tide the patient over until normal healing begins.

But inflammation is a problem in more serious, longer lasting diseases, too. So steroid drugs have had some use in treatment of rheumatoid arthritis, eczema, asthma, certain types of cancer and leukemia. It is when they are used for treatment of the longer-lasting, chronic diseases, that the side effects of the steroid drugs must be taken into account.

The adrenal glands play a central part in keeping the body in balance, in homeostasis, as doctors say. They regulate the amount of salt and water in the body, the level of blood sugar, the breakdown of protein.

Steroid drugs affect the storage and breakdown of fat in the body, too. They have effects on blood pressure, kidney output, and the action of the muscles and the brain and nervous system. They regu-

CHOOSE YOUR LOOK--These four hair styles for fall were unveiled by the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association. Hairdressers meet in Washington, D.C. to learn to cut and style them. Featuring short hair and easy-to-care-for styling, they have been dubbed by the hairdressers as, left to right, the "Camp," "Scamp," "Vamp," and "Amp."

Don't expect anything flowery to bloom under the nation's hair dryers this fall. Hair will be shorter, more casual, and easier to care for than in years.

Back-combing is out and so, apparently, is the wild "gyppy" look so dear to the hearts of many.

"Short" is the byword. Yes, now that you've finally coaxed your hair to that hair-raising, long length you've always coveted, it's time to cut it off.

At least, that's the prediction of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association. The hairdressers introduced four styles for fall in Washington, D.C., as a prelude to the 60,000-member group's annual convention.

All four styles feature shorter lengths, and they all seem somehow reminiscent of something you've seen before.

But bowing to the fashion independence that women have flaunted at designers recently, the hairdressers have softened their predictions.

"We wish only to leave an impression of what you will be seeing, rather than telling you what you will be wearing for a hair trend this fall and winter," said Bernard Desjardins of Lewiston, Maine, styles director of the Official Hair Fashion Committee which created the season's four designs.

Most startling of the four looks is the nostalgic "Vamp," a progression of tight waves, flaring at the ends and parted in the middle, a la Bette Davis of a few decades ago.

The woman who can't bring herself to shear her long locks may find a stylish compromise in the "Amp," long at the neck but short at the front and top.

Shortest and most casual are the so-called "Scamp" and "Camp" looks. The first is brushed back almost carelessly from the forehead and the other is combed forward from the crown for a neat schoolgirl look.

And what if none of these styles turns you on? Then wear your hair as you jolly well please.

Even Desjardins admits that things have changed from those bygone days when stylists dictated the season's look.

"The life style of today's woman and her personality direct the hair design she will wear," he said.

Choose glassware carefully

By JOYCE ROARK
Copley News Service

Glassware is a household item that no home can be without. Whether it's for formal occasions or for everyday use, you should choose glassware wisely.

Lead crystal is the most elegant of all glassware. It's a soft glass and therefore is usually cut. It's heavy in weight and price. You can identify lead crystal by the peculiar pattern on it and the ring it has when tapped lightly.

Lead glass is the most popular type of glassware used. The quality and cost of lead glass are less than that of lead crystal. The design is etched into the glass. However, unlike lead crystal, line glass can be found without design. It can be colored or smoked giving it greater variety of selection.

Scandinavian crystal is lighter in weight, simple in style with no design. Often it's smoked.

Italian glass is blown instead of molded. It can be identified by the filigree work in silver or gold on the glass. U.S. glass is blown and pressed glass. The pressed glass is like a sandwich of glass. Line glass is used but the shaping process being different gives the glass a less elegant appearance. Some popular brands to watch for are Steubenville (subsidiary of Dow Corning), Venoco, Libbey or Fostoria.

Mexican glass is line glass but it has imperfections and bubbles in it. It's made in tumblers and decorative pieces rather than in stemware. Care should be taken when washing because the impurities and bubbles can cause the glass to break in normal dishwasher.

German glass is red in color, has the design cut into it and has a gold overlay design. It usually has a Bavarian label.

When you shop for glassware, keep these factors in mind. Is the glass stable or does it overturn easily? Check all pieces for rough edges. Check the ring if there should be one. If possible, choose a pattern of glassware that will coordinate with your dinnerware, flatware and linens.

State Chamber critical of EPA

The Illinois State Chamber of Commerce has criticized the state Environmental Protection Agency and the Pollution Control Board for ignoring the needs of businessmen and jeopardizing the economic well-being of Illinois by its actions in developing environmental control regulations.

"Again and again, we find the Illinois EPA and PCB ignoring the collective expertise of businessmen in drawing up environmental control regulations, and failing to consider such vital factors as the technical feasibility and economic reasonableness of environmental controls," said State Chamber President Lester W. Brann Jr.

The State Chamber's comments came in response to the adoption of solid waste disposal regulations by the Illinois Pollution Control Board. The regulations seek to control the disposal of certain types of solid wastes in landfill areas. The State Chamber faulted the new regulations for several reasons: Language used in the regulations is vague and such terms as "hazardous wastes" are not properly defined in terms of their true environmental hazards.

The paperwork involved is a cumbersome process for both the Illinois EPA and businessmen, with permits for solid waste facility development involving exorbitant and unnecessary expense for applicants.

The regulations do not readily adapt themselves to the disposal of residues resulting from air and water pollution control and ashes from incinerators.

Many of the 10,000 types of solid wastes which exist in Illinois are not hazardous and can be safely disposed of in landfills, yet the new regulations do not distinguish between hazardous and nonhazardous chemical wastes. Brann volunteered State

Chamber services in providing technical assistance in the drafting of future pollution control regulations. "If industrial representatives could participate in the early stages of the rule-making process," he said, "it would benefit both parties. As it is now, we can only react when regulations which we object to are adopted."

Five additional sections of the land pollution and refuse disposal regulations will be prepared by the EPA in the near future.

Illinois Department of Corrections Director Allyn R. Sielaff has announced the appointment of Charles A. ## Title I helps deprived child

By MARY LOU MANNING
Copley News Service

Springfield — Johnny can't read. Neither can several of his fellow students in the Chicago ghetto school he attends.

Hopless? Not exactly. Not if his school applies and qualifies for Title I program funds to provide a remedial reading class.

The Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965, one of President Lyndon Johnson's programs to fight poverty, represents "the largest single commitment by the government to strengthen and improve educational quality and opportunities."

Title I of the act provides federal funds for programs designed to help the educationally deprived child living in low-income areas. The criteria for determining eligibility for Title I funds depends upon two factors: the number of children in families with incomes below $2,000 and children in families above that income but receiving Aid for Families with Dependent Children.

These figures are based upon census computations, according to Robert Hardy, administrator of Title I. Hardy works out of the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction.

"Each year Illinois receives $88.70 million of a total of $1 billion distributed for Title I programs," he explained. "This is about $155 per child in the programs."

The only requirement for enrolling a child in a Title I program is that he be considered "educationally deprived." Federal regulations define such a child as one who needs special educational assistance in order that his level of educational attainment may be raised to that appropriate for children of his age.

He may have any one of these characteristics: high failure rate, poor attendance rate, inadequate communication skills or physical defects.

The program also includes provisions for funding programs for handicapped children, migrant children and children confined to state homes, institutions and the like," explained Hardy. He also stressed that the programs must meet certain

Granite City Press-Record

"It is important to note that the services provided for the disadvantaged must be equal to or better than services provided for other children," Hardy said. The program supplements rather than supplants.

At present approximately 900 schools in the state receive aid for Title I programs in the area of math and reading.

"The funds may be used in such areas as salaries for special teachers and aides, food services, health care, preschool projects, materials or equipment," he stated.

Hardy's office is responsible for reviewing annual applications from schools applying for funds. After approval, the division distributes funds and monitors the working programs.

It seems all well and good, but the program has come under fire.

"Critics are quick to point out that we have spent all of this money to fight poverty and yet poverty still exists," Hardy said. "Our success is not readily measured. These educational programs are bringing about changes in children's lives. The pay-off will come years from now."

Move to cure alcoholics proving successful

Copley News Service

Springfield — An estimated 10 percent of the nation's work force are alcoholics, according to figures from the National Institute of Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism. In a work force of 45 million, that's approximately 4.5 million alcoholic employees.

Further, alcoholic employees are costing industry $20 million per year in absenteeism, medical expenses and poor job performance. That's approximately $2,000 and 22 days missed per person per year. What can be done about this appalling situation, and who is trying to help?

The Illinois Department of Mental Health is, for starters. In June, 1972 the NIAAA gave grants of $50,000 to 10-year-olds for the purpose of hiring two people to develop a program for alcoholic employees.

One person from the MHD works with the private sector while another deals with governmental agencies. Their goal is to make industry aware that they have a problem and to assist them in setting up a program to deal with the problem.

"We are trying to sell companies one concept: they have a problem which is costing them money, and something can be done about it," exclaimed Mike Rainey of the MHD's division of health education.

"Often times the decision to begin a program rests with one individual, and he may be influenced by many factors."

At present the number of industrial alcoholism programs is nationwide, not very impressive. Consider these facts derived from the National Council on Alcoholism: there are approximately 1.3 million companies of which 350 have programs. Of this number, 50 are considered "working" and 15 labeled "effective."

If a company does decide to implement a program the first step involves setting a company policy toward the alcoholic employee. This is followed by training of supervisory personnel.

"The person in this capacity is trained to identify changes in the work behavior of an alcoholic employee," stated Rainey. "He watches for such things as on-the-job absenteeism, mood changes during the day and accident rates."

When an employee's work becomes substandard, the supervisor will document it and refer the employee to the company-designated person qualified to help with his problem.

It is here that the thrust of the program lies: early identification of the problem. "It is found that the biggest encouragement for help is threat of losing one's job," Rainey said. "In industry alcoholism is not looked at in terms of a social problem. Rather it can be approached in terms of work performance, something we can measure."

So far, the program idea in Illinois has been fairly receptive.

"We've had some success in either implementing or updating existing programs," the Chicago-based Rainey said. "We are available on call for consultation."

For those companies who do employ such a program, the success can already be measured.

Allis Chalmers — absenteeism dropped from 8 to 3 per cent.

Consolidated Edison — 60 per cent of its treated alcoholics were rehabilitated.

DuPont — 900 alcoholics were identified with 68 per cent rehabilitated.

Illinois Bell Telephone — 72 alcoholics rehabilitated.

General Dynamics — listed a recovery rate of higher than 65 per cent.

3 women fight, face 5 charges
Three young Granite City women face a total of five charges and one was admitted to St. Elizabeth Hospital as a result of a fight occurring last week in the 2200 block of Illinois Avenue.

Police said all squad cars were dispatched to the scene of the disturbance, where officers found Connie Rose, 18, of 2188 Bryan Ave., "bleeding from the head."

Officers said the incident apparently began with an argument between Patti L. Griggs, 20, of 2008 Missouri Ave., and the Rose girl. The former was joined in the fray by her sister, Shirley K. Griggs, 19, of the Missouri Avenue address, police said. Shoes were used in the fight, police said.

A complaint charging aggravated battery was signed by Miss Rose against Patti Griggs, who signed a counter-complaint charging battery against the Rose woman.

All three women were charged by officers with fighting and the Griggs sisters were taken into custody.

Miss Rose was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital where she was treated for a head cut, requiring five stitches, and multiple abrasions to the arms and legs before being admitted.

Spalding outrides field for 3rd win

Late model stock car driver Wb Spalding, Pontiac, increased his lead in the point standings at Tri-City Speedway after leading Billy Myers, Rosewood Heights, the 1971 truck champion to the checkers in the 25-lap feature event Friday evening.

Spalding, the seventh fastest qualifier with a time of 28.52 seconds around the half-mile dirt speedway, started on the front row next to Myers in the line-up and was never seriously challenged after charging into the lead on the first lap.

Spalding finished second in the first heat event behind Clyde Lindemann, Cottleville, Mo., who had posted the fastest time of 27.19 seconds during time trials. Lindemann was the fifth driver to cross the finish line behind Spalding in the feature race. The others were Myers, 2nd; Len Gittimer, St. Charles, Mo.; 3rd (Gittimer is presently second in the point standings); and Russell Wallace, Arnold, Mo., 4th.

Wallace also turned in the second fastest qualifying time of 28.65 seconds and Beahlo's Louis Janssen was third fastest with a time of 28.12. Janssen beat Ron Harrington,

Vandall, to win the third heat race before losing his chance to win three consecutive main events when his car spun in the third turn on the eleventh lap of the feature.

Kenny Schrader, Valley Park, Mo., dropped out of competition early in the race with a blown engine. He had earlier led the six fastest qualifiers to the checkered flag in the six lap handicap event. Harold Workman, Valley Park, was victorious in the only other late model heat race.

St. Louisian Bruce Donaldson placed his stock car in the winner's circle for the second time this year, after coming from way behind to out-due Pat Walsh, St. Louis, and capture the fifteen lap hobby division feature event.

His co-driver, Dennis Rollett, had driven the car to victory in June.

Donaldson was also victorious over second place finisher Kris Krohn, Centralia, in the second heat race. Rollett had also captured the second heat event on his victory night.

Former feature winner Rob Bailey, Granite City, had been running in the second position behind Donaldson for nine of the ten lap heat race, but had to pull out of the competition on the tenth lap because of mechanical problems.

Walsh also had to settle for a second place finish in the first heat event behind Jerry Buchner, Alton, the winner.

With Spalding will be seeking his fourth feature victory of the season in his quest for the track championship, and Bruce Donaldson will attempt to place his car in the winner's circle.

Walsh's car racing resumes this coming Friday evening. Toureder's car will compete in the AMA sanctioned short track motorcycle races will dominate the quarter-mile dirt oval with time trials beginning at 7 p.m. and the first event scheduled to start at 8 p.m.

Waterfowl season opens Oct. 20

The Illinois migratory waterfowl season will open Oct. 20 this year. Hunting dates have been approved by the Department of Conservation Advisory Board.

The duck season will run from Oct. 20-Dec. 31. The goose season is Oct. 20-Dec. 31, except in Alexander, Jackson, Union and Williamson counties, where it opens Nov. 19 and closes when the quota of 24,000 geese is reached or on Jan. 20, whichever comes first.

Hunting hours are sunrise to sunset, except the four counties for geese where it is from sunrise until 3 p.m.

Illinois duck hunters again will use the point system in determining bag limits.

A hunter may shoot ducks until their point values total or exceed 100. Point values published are: canvasback, 10; mallards, 10 points; mallard hens, wood ducks and hooded mergansers, 20 points.

Mallard drakes, ring-necked ducks, pintails and black ducks, 25 points; blue-winged teal, green-winged teal, canvasbacks, wigeon, shoveller, gadwall, mergansers (except hooded), sea ducks, and all other ducks 30 points. There are no point values for geese; the bag limit is 15 per day and 30 in possession. The cost of a season will run concurrent with the duck season. Redheads and canvasbacks may not be hunted on the Mississippi River, or its backwaters, between Keokuk Dam and Prescott, Wis.

"These birds weren't hunted at all during the 1972 season," said Jim Lockart, supervisor of the conservation department's Division of Wildlife Resources.

"However, there was an increase in the numbers of birds this year, and the U.S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife has given us the okay to allow the first day's hunt as five geese, with no more than four Canada geese or more than two white-fronted geese in any one zone (Alexander, Jackson, Union, and Williamson counties) the bag limit is two geese per day and four in possession.

The shoveller population is off 20 per cent, pintails are down 30 per cent, and scaup should show a 17 per cent reduction. Wigeon show an increase of 20 per cent. Goose flights should be relatively unchanged from last year, with good numbers of the birds expected to inhabit Illinois during the fall.

The bag limit for geese outside the four-county quota zone is five per day, of which only two can be Canada geese or white-fronted geese, or one of each. The other three must be other species, such as blue or snow geese. The possession limit for the first day's hunt is five geese, with no more than four Canada geese or more than two white-fronted geese in any one zone (Alexander, Jackson, Union, and Williamson counties) the bag limit is two geese per day and four in possession.

"According to early reports, there should be a substantial reduction in the total fall flight of ducks into the Mississippi River this year," Lockart said. Reports submitted to the Mississippi Flyway meeting indicate the mallard population will be down 15 per cent from last year, gadwall down 10 per cent from 1972, and green-winged teal and blue-winged teal flights decreased 11 per cent and 18 per cent, respectively.

The shoveller population is off 20 per cent, pintails are down 30 per cent, and scaup should show a 17 per cent reduction. Wigeon show an increase of 20 per cent. has continued since July 8.

A company spokesman said the wages have been increased from 75 cents to 76 cents by shifting provisions of the package but the company and union are still roughly 55 cents apart on the package.

The company's contract with Steelworkers Local 1989 at the Steel Package Division, 15th and State streets, expires Friday and negotiations are continuing on a new contract. Meetings are set for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Negotiations between the Granite City School District and the Granite City Federation of Teachers Local 742 are to continue Wednesday and full negotiating team sessions set.

The teams met last Wednesday and divided into a subcommittee to study the school district's financial status. The subcommittee of administration officials and union negotiators met Thursday night and agreed to Friday, second, and possibly final, session this Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

John Dwyer, union president, said a meeting of the full negotiating teams has been called for Wednesday night to be held after the subcommittee meeting.

Spokesmen for both sides agreed, "It's still feel finders and exploration at this time and there are no difficulties at this point. There still is a willingness at this time on both sides to negotiate."

OUR CHILDREN Kids are happy so why push?

By DR. WILLARD ARIAN
Copley News Service

Q. I've seen references to books and articles on making a child more intelligent, and I'll admit feeling a little guilty because I don't think I'm doing anything in that direction. We have three children who are reasonably bright, all of whom earn at least average grades in school, get along with others, and seem to be pretty well-adjusted. But perhaps we should be doing more — make sure they get to the library, museums and other places more frequently, for example. They don't seem dissatisfied because we don't push, but perhaps it's just because they don't know what they're missing. What should we do to change our ways?

A. Why should you? Far more parents are guilty of pressuring their youngsters, expecting grades higher than the kids are capable of, comparing them with others, and forcing them into play, reading and other activities in which they feel the kids should be interested.

It's refreshing to hear from a parent who's comfortable about the children, and who's dealing along with them rather than pushing them in parent-dominated directions.

So try to relax. It sounds as though you and they are in a situation many other parents should envy — and copy.

Q. Don't all teen-agers pester their parents to let them get a driver's license? Ours doesn't. He's just as eager to have us or others drive him around even though he passed the age for getting a license a few months ago. I've asked him about this, and all he says is that it isn't important to him. What do you think is wrong with him?

A. Probably nothing. If others are available to drive him, that may be his way of both saving money and avoiding responsibility. Either reason may be good enough to keep him out of the driver's seat a while longer.

But if the service becomes inconvenient or he suddenly has a girl friend, you may see a quick change of heart. And the discussion always centers around the girl herself.

As you can imagine, my wife is very vain, and our daughter is becoming the same way. I can't very well solve the problem by telling her she's not pretty when she is, or by pleading with my wife to stop it. I've tried that and it does no good. Anything you can suggest?

A. You're up against a tough one, for it's not just about vanity, but two women against one man. Does that sound too sexist? The affirmative approach might help a little. More time with your daughter (as often as you can with just the two of you), comments by you on other topics of importance that you can direct her toward, mentioning other children (who happen not to be especially good-looking, although you needn't refer to that factor) and the abilities and interests they have, attempts to bring her together with other children like that, and your suggestion that each of you in order choose a different topic for dinner conversation (at least you'll select one out of three) — these five ideas may help you survive.

PILL BOTTLE PERIL Unsafe containers still endanger children

By JEANNETTE BRANIN
Copley News Service

Four kindergartners were given pill bottles sealed with "child-resistant caps." They were promised a reward if they could open the bottles. Tina and Linda and Roger, 5, 4 and 3, respectively, turned the bottle right side up and said, "Oh, I can read that. It says press."

He pressed the top, twisted the cap, and easily opened the bottle which at one time had contained enough sleeping tablets to kill any child or adult.

Adrian is five years old, and is termed a precocious child by Ted Schramm, director of the Sullivan Pre-School Center in San Diego, Calif., which the four children attend.

School assignments clarified

Questions concerning assignment of Madison students were clarified by the Madison Board of Education at its meeting Thursday night.

John Falchett, superintendent of schools, said confusion arose among many residents of the school district when the board voted to change attendance centers and close Dunbar School, and later rescinded the change and voted to return to the assignment procedure used last year.

Falchett explained all kindergarten through sixth grade students living west of State Street should attend either Dunbar or Blair Schools, reporting to the same school they attended last year.

K-6 grade students residing east of State Street will attend either Harris or Louis Beer School, also reporting to the same school as last year.

New students in those grades will be assigned to a school by the administration staff and questions should be directed to 877-1712 or the board office at 1707 Fourth St., Madison.

All seventh and eighth grade students in the district should attend Madison Junior High School this year and all 9-12 grade students should attend Madison High School. The board heard a report by Eldon Rhoads, maintenance superintendent for the district, that nearly all work had been completed on the schools and that they were almost ready for the opening of the schools Monday, Aug. 27.

Rhoads said the schools were

to be inspected by a representative of the superintendent of the educational service region Friday and that his report should be available before school opens.

The Illinois Life Safety Code study, which was undertaken by an architect, has been completed but the report and recommendations have not been received, he told the board. Leaks in the Dunbar School roof are to be repaired and the junior high school roof has been completed. A leaky gutter seam at Blair School is to be repaired but repairs to the gutters of Harris School will be extensive since a portion of the roofing will have to be removed to take off the old gutters and install new ones, Rhoads reported.

He said the dishwasher ordered for the high school had not arrived and is needed for the school cafeteria to open. He said they were attempting to determine the location of the machine.

A refrigerator at the high school may be the wrong type, but the manufacturers are to inspect the unit, he added. The walk-in freezer which was to be delivered Aug. 1 is not available and may not be delivered until mid-October, so the district's meat supply is being kept in a locker in East St. Louis, he added.

Another upright freezer is to be delivered to the district soon, but all other freezers, stoves and refrigerators ordered by the board have been installed, Rhoads added.

The board was informed by letter from William R. L. Trimpe, superintendent of the educational service region, that it must apply to the state superintendent of public instruction for approval of the split-shift at the junior high school. Falchett said he would write immediately to request the approval.

Trimpe also warned the board that the federal government's special milk program has not been renewed and that there are no assurances the program will be started again.

He indicated the district might have to charge children 8 to 10 cents for a half-pint of milk when school opens.

The board withheld action on a proposal to allow the Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission to utilize the Dunbar School Annex this year for a day care center.

Permission was granted to the Concerned Parents and Citizens of Madison to hold meetings at the Harris School cafeteria the third Wednesday evening of each month, if no conflicts of scheduling exist.

Cub Pack 21 of Madison was granted permission to use the Harris gymnasium for a "school night" program Friday, Sept. 21, to increase the number participating in Cub Scouting programs.

The Dunbar School Parent-Teacher group was granted permission to hold a meeting in the Dunbar School cafeteria at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

State seeks new elderly director

By RAY SERATI

Copyist News Service Springfield — The search for the director for Illinois' new department for the elderly is on. Gov. Daniel Walker has signed the legislation into law. There has been no definite indication as to how soon the entire department will be formulated. The law becomes effective Nov. 9. Between now and then Walker's staff will look for a department director.

Lt. Gov. Neil Hartigan was one of the prime movers in forming such a department. He had been assigned the problem of the aging in Illinois by Walker in February.

In all it is expected that the new department will handle some 32 programs designed for the state's elderly. These range from federal programs to state funded programs.

It is also hoped that the new department will give the state's senior citizens one single place to go to when they have problems. One of the top programs which the new department will administer is the Federal Older Americans Act.

Under this program Illinois will get some $5 million which will be used to provide grants to communities for services to the elderly.

It is expected that the new department will give additional help to local communities in providing services for the senior citizens.

Presently programs for the state's estimated 2.2 million elderly are scattered through some 30 state agencies. These services will now be drawn into the new department with the exception of some public aid programs, which will remain with the Public Aid Department. These are the federal aid programs of aid to the aged, blind and disabled.

Under the provisions of the legislation the department director must be a senior citizen. Also two advisory councils will be formed to help coordinate the work of the department.

A plan is also to be drafted by the new department, which will meet the needs of the state's senior citizens.

3 new police added

Three new patrolmen started duty Thursday with the Granite City Police Department, elevating the department's strength to 46 men.

The most recent additions to the force are Craig Nona, Robert Krause and Stephen Willardt. They join two other newly appointed officers, Kerry Pomeroy and John Apperson, who were added to the department Aug. 2.

The five new men were selected from a total of 37 applicants, according to Chief of Police Ronald Veizer.

Each police candidate is required to undergo physical, aptitude and educational tests, with a fitness recommendation decided by the Granite City Board of Fire and Police Commissioners and forwarded to the City Council for approval. All new patrolmen are assigned to a senior police officer for on-the-job orientation and training, the latter continuing for most of their one-year probationary period, Chief Veizer explained.

The new officers also will attend a six-week course at an accredited college for further law enforcement education. The latest appointees were administered the oath by Deputy City Clerk Virginia McLeister in a brief ceremony at the City Hall.

Nona, a 1964 graduate of Granite City High School, is 26 years old. He is a member of the Knights of Columbus and previously was employed as a salesman by Granite City Dough.

He and his wife, Marlene, are the parents of an 11-month-old son, Scott Alan.

A member of the U.S. Marine Corps Reserves, Krause, 21, still retains his active status in the military. He served three years as a U.S. Marine, working primarily in the field of radio electronics.

Krause is a 1970 graduate of Granite City High School. He is unmarried.

Willardt, 24, was graduated in 1967 from Granite City High School. He has been employed as a technical illustrator at McDonald-Douglas Corp. in St. Louis County.

The officer and his wife, Susan, have a 2-year-old son, Stephen Eric.

Formula for a relaxing winter

Insulation in walls
Insulation beneath floor

In the new apartment units he recently built in Mt. Clare, Illinois, Mr. Lester D. Chappell used the comfort formula that's being applied by more and more builders throughout Illinois: a blanket of proper insulation and electric heat. For a truly relaxing winter, it's the right formula.

The insulation blanket reduces heat loss, saves on heating costs and acts as a sound barrier. In his new building, Mr. Chappell used the recommended standard of insulation in the ceilings, in the exterior walls and beneath the floors.

He chose electric baseboard heat for the apartment units for two practical reasons: its quiet, efficient comfort and the fact that electric heat reduces construction and maintenance costs. In addition, the room-by-room temperature control conserves energy and enables the tenants to save on fuel bills by heating only the rooms they are using at any time.

If you're planning a new building or thinking of replacing the heating system in an existing building, get the facts on insulation and electric heat from the Sales Representative at Illinois Power.

Which is real Dan Walker?

By KEN WATSON
Caplay News Service
Springfield, Ill. — Which is the real Dan Walker? Is it the Daniel Walker smiling and joking with youngsters and farmers at a State Fair stock pen? Or is it the Daniel Walker hard-faced and angered bristling at reporters at a news conference?

Nobody really knows. But the incidents, separated by only a few hours, are typical of the Walker style.

After more than half a year in office, the new governor remains an enigma, his strength and potential still to be determined.

At the Statehouse there are those who predict he is already doomed to be a one-term governor. Others believe he will be the next President of the United States.

But there is virtual agreement on one point. He is the most fascinating personality to occupy the governor's office since Abraham Lincoln has, on the whole, been served by a succession of good governors since World War II. But none can match Walker in color, contrast or diversity. State Fair week offered Walker a golden opportunity to exploit his ever-changing popularity building technique and he exploited it to the full.

With the exception of Republican Day, his appointments schedule had him booked for the fairgrounds at least one every day of the 10-day run and on occasion several trips.

Some governors, involved in the controversies the law marked Walker's first six months in office, might hesitate to mingle with fair crowds, especially in a Capital City where unhappy ex-state job holders or state job seekers are likely to abound.

But not Walker. His daily excursions to the fairgrounds were highly successful ones. He was warmly greeted. Fair visitors from throughout Illinois were charmed by Walker's boldness, his directness, his famed piercing expression, his unvarying tight lips and fingers which leaves the fingers tingling. Walker has conceded that he has yet to make his mark as governor. But if his lack of achievement is weakening his ties with the Downstate man-in-the-street, the State Fair reception failed to dampen his popularity.

Walker's still popular and his running battles with the press, fellow Democrats, Mayor Richard Daley and Republican legislative leaders probably are not hurting him much at this stage.

It was necessary to ponder questions about the new Illinois Democratic Fund, considered by most including Daley as Walker's private political fund, that brought frowns and hard words from the governor at a recent press conference.

But the people are bored with politics. What they will remember is the first-hand conducted by the governor at the State Fair or those abundant and widely distributed pictures of him holding a little girl on his shoulders or chatting with a proud young star at his prize-winning steer.

WHAT ABOUT RETIREMENT?
Social Security isn't charity

By FRANK CORBICK
CAPLAY NEWS SERVICE
Q. I have been getting Social Security, but my wife, who will be 62 next year, says she won't file. She claims she doesn't want it, that it's "charity." Is there any way I can file for her? — J.R.

A. If your wife is mentally and physically capable of handling her own affairs, she must file an application if she is to be paid benefits.

You might point out to her that this benefit is not "charity" — it is paid because you worked and paid into Social Security.

Q. Where are the places to look for employment? — D.L.
A. A good way to find employment is through personal contact with friends, relatives, former employers, unions, schools, church groups and professional organizations.

The needs of the retired worker who doesn't want to carry a full load often coincide with the needs of the small businessman who can't afford full-time help. Most shopping centers need extra help two or three evenings a week; the same goes for doctors and dentists who have difficulty finding part-timers for their late evening office hours.

Q. When I went to the Social Security Office recently to file a claim for widow's benefits, I was asked about prior marriages. I had been married twice and divorced, but I didn't think it was necessary to go into past history and I certainly don't want others to find this out. — Mrs. R.C.C.

A. Social Security must establish that you are the legal widow. To do this they must find out if prior marriages were legally terminated (e.g., by death, divorce or annulment).

Don't worry about others finding out about your prior marriages. Social Security has very strict rules regarding the confidentiality of information in their files.

Girl, 9, shot, one charged

A 9-year-old Madison girl, Serena Giles, 21 Garfield Avenue, was treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital at 11:45 a.m. yesterday for gunshot wounds she received while asleep in her home.

The girl's mother, Joyce Giles, of the same address, stated that she had heard what sounded like a gunshot and that her daughter woke up crying.

Upon discovering that Serena had been wounded, she took her to the hospital where a bullet was removed from her left thigh.

Mrs. Giles told authorities that she thought the shots had come from an apartment near home.

Madison police then checked the girls bedroom and found the point of entry of the projectile and also what appeared to be bullet holes in the wall of another apartment where they found spent shell casings and a live shell.

The occupant of the apartment said that the room where the shots were fired was that of her baby sister, Miss Willie Mae Allen, 25 of 1200 N. 14th street, East St. Louis.

Upon questioning, Miss Allen showed police where a gun was hidden in her room behind a dresser.

Miss Allen was charged with reckless conduct.

Increased teacher strikes predicted

For the third time in as many years, the state's largest teachers organization is predicting an increase in the number of school strikes this fall.

The announcement came through the Illinois Education Association (IEA) which reports 136 of its local associations still have not resolved contract negotiations for the coming school year.

According to Dr. Curtis Platt, executive secretary of the 60,000-member IEA, "Once again we are hearing the opening of school with scores of Illinois school districts embroiled in negotiations."

IEA has been in the forefront of public employee organizations lobbying for a bill which would regulate negotiations between public employers and their employees.

Condemning the Senate Labor Committee Dr. Platt charged, "At the very time teachers in 129 districts are racing the clock to reach agreement with their boards, the Senate Labor Committee is holding hearings around the state to determine whether negotiations law is needed."

"After 40 strikes in three years, after over one-third of all the teachers in Illinois have been on strike, and after negotiations legislation has been introduced annually since 1945 and sanctioned by study groups under two governors, the debate about need has been resolved. The only question remaining is when will the legislation be enacted?"

Referring specifically to the Republican members of the Senate Labor Committee, Dr. Platt said, "A handful of legislators are burying proposals with depressing regularity that would provide inoperative machinery and establish fair labor practices that both teachers boards could live by."

Because of that, teachers, students and parents are forced to play a Russian roulette game with school openings."

Dr. Platt in testifying in front of the Labor Committee hearings in Chicago branded the hearings a "charade that flies in the face of the public."

He also challenged the committee to act now and end thirty years of vacillation.

In Illinois the report shows that out of 321,000 Vietnam Era veterans, 125,343 have taken some form of training in the 83 months the present GI Bill has been available.

Of these 21.6 per cent enrolled in colleges; 12.8 per cent were in below-college training; 4.8 per cent were taking on-job training programs; and 7.1 per cent were involved in correspondence courses.

GOOD NEWS Smoother air rides sought

By FRANK MACONBER
Copy News Service

Does the fear of air sickness keep you off jetliners? The federal space agency is trying to do something about making an airplane ride more comfortable, even in turbulent air pockets.

Usually the airline pilot's opinion carries the most weight during flight tests.

The idea is to get responses from passengers to various aircraft motions, then establish a guide to grade the ride qualities of all aircraft.

NASA officials believe that from passenger responses, aircraft designers can improve objectionable ride qualities of present-day planes during rough weather, takeoffs and landings.

Earlier studies using "shake" chairs and motion simulators have been inconclusive. In the new study NASA is using converted medium-size jet transport equipped with a variety of devices to simulate "bumpy" flight conditions.

Thirty Flight Research Center volunteers with varied experience in aircraft motion sickness are undergoing the stresses of "rough air" and maneuvering flights. About 25 per cent of them are women.

The plane is flown on a simulated short-haul operation to emphasize a variety of flight motions—turns and banks, climb-outs and descents.

The artificial motions are controlled by a computer tape so passenger responses can be compared with each motion. The volunteers are required to perform such midflight tasks as reading, writing, eating and drinking to simulate the activities of typical passengers. Their performances under simulated "rough" flight conditions are recorded on tape.

A second phase of the program will be conducted aboard a Boeing 747 jetliner specially instrumented to record aircraft motions and passenger reactions to them during actual flights in rough weather.

Spur veteran enrollment

Special efforts to enroll area veterans in school and to help veterans already enrolled in higher education are being launched by a new office of veterans affairs at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

The program is being developed through a $75,718 federal grant from the Veterans Affairs Administration.

Gene Graves, assistant to the president of SIUE, said the emphasis will be in two areas: recruitment of eligible veterans, enrolling them as college students or in the University's Upward Bound program for veterans who do not have their high school diploma, and service to veterans presently enrolled at SIUE, providing tutorial services and other help for veterans who have problems.

Terry D. Campbell, who has been a graduate assistant dealing with veterans affairs in the SIUE student affairs office, has been named coordinator of the new program.

Assisting him will be a volunteer veterans advisory committee composed of Graves, Jim Stein of SIUE Veterans Upward Bound program; Harold Bryant of the SIUE veterans service center at East St. Louis; Bill Varble, veterans service center assistant at SIUE's Altamont campus; Bob Fowler of the Illinois Veterans Commission's Outreach Project; Jim Trent of the SIUE association of College Veterans; and two ex-officio members, Wesley Moss, Illinois State Employment Agency, and Harold Lindsey, Madison County Veterans Assistance Office.

A personnel committee composed of Campbell, Trent and Stan Riley of the Upward Bound program is conducting interviews and making recommendations to the advisory committee for the employment of an assistant coordinator, three recruiters, two benefits advisers, a tutorial coordinator, and a secretary for the program.

Graves said that even if the positions have not been filled before fall quarter registration at SIUE, the University will have personnel standing by who are qualified to advise veterans of the benefits available to them and to assist them with their problems.

According to Graves, 50 per cent of the grant will go toward the establishment and operation of the office of veterans affairs, and the other 50 per cent will be used for instructional programs for veterans.

Graves said existing veterans' instructional programs at SIUE will be reinforced and expanded. In addition to the Upward Bound program and tutorial services for veterans, the University has a program at Scott Air Force Base for service personnel about to be discharged.

SIUE had 1,747 veterans enrolled during the spring quarter. No estimate has been made of the number of veterans expected in the fall quarter.

Stucke cited for service

A Community Service Award from his employer has been presented to Donald Stucke, an agent in the Prudential Insurance Co.'s Granite City District agency, 10 Nameoki Village, Granite City. Stucke lives at 1613 Clark Ave.

Making the presentation was William F. Curcuro, Jr., manager of the agency.

According to William Ingram, senior vice-president in charge of the Company's Mid-America operations, Stucke is one of the only 30 Prudential representatives and employees in Illinois and Indiana to be selected for the award this year. The company's staff in the territory exceeds 7,000.

The regional chief executive said the awards honor company personnel with outstanding records of achievement in voluntary community service. Among the activities for which Stucke was recognized are:

New serving in his fifth year as president of the Granite City School Board of which he is now President. He has also served as treasurer and as vice-president of the large District Council, Illinois Association of School Boards and the Board of Directors of Illinois Association of School Boards. Stucke has represented

Prudential since August 1968. He is a graduate of Granite City High School.

He and his wife, Lucy, are the parents of three daughters, Carol Pasche, Janice Hamilton, and Joyce Helrich, and five grandchildren.

JOHN MAYALL who will appear at the Mississippi River Festival tomorrow night. From England, Mayall is considered internationally as one of the top blues musicians of his time.

KENNY ROGERS who will appear with The First Edition Friday at MRF. The group hosts its own syndicated television program. The MRF concerts will begin at 8:30 p.m.

Top acts featured in final MRF concerts

A variety of popular entertainment is scheduled for the final nine days of Mississippi River Festival concerts with John Mayall tomorrow; Kenny Rogers and The First Edition Friday, Chicago on Saturday, Pat Boone & Family on Sunday, Bette Midler on Tuesday, Aug. 28, and Crosby & Nash on Wednesday, Aug. 29.

All concerts at the Festival site at Southern Illinois University in Edwardsville begin at 8:30 p.m.

Front groups include Bonnie Bramlett on Aug. 21, John Stewart on Aug. 24 and The Pointer Sisters on Aug. 25.

Recognized as the top blues musicians to emerge from England in the past decade, John Mayall has gained his highly respected position through his 25 albums (most recently "Moving On") and frequent club and concert appearances.

He also is noted for bringing together top musicians for his blues bands and with him at the Mississippi River Festival will be: Keef Hartley, drums; Richard Blue Mitchell, trumpet; Freddie Robinson, guitar; Victor Gaskin, bass; and Fred Clark, sax.

Kenny Rogers and The First Edition have stayed at the top of the recording and concert field since 1967 when they broke off from The New Christy Minstrels to form their own group.

Two seasons ago they became the first pop-rock group to host its own syndicated prime-time television show; "Rollin' On The River," carried by 175 television stations its first year. The show, now called "Rollin' with Kenny Rogers and The First Edition" is seen weekly in St. Louis. Among their numerous hits are "The Ballad of Calico" which was also a best-selling album, "Reuben James" and "Rudy, Don't Take Your Love To Town."

Chicago, perhaps the most internationally-acclaimed group in the world today, has created a unique sound and style influenced by an admiration for jazz, brass, the classics and rock and roll. Its five albums have included such single hits as "Saturday in the Park," "25 Or 6 to 4," and "Does Anybody Really Know What Time It Is."

Since Chicago's first world tour in 1971 the group has returned to Japan and toured Australia, shattering every entertainment attendance record in both nations. It's week-long engagement at New York's Carnegie Hall also broke all attendance records as did return appearances the following year. The largest audience of the 1973 Mississippi River Festival is expected for Chicago's concert.

Pat Boone reached stardom in the mid-1950s, remaining at the top of the recording industry for over 17 years. In 1970 his wife and four daughters joined him on stage for a tour of the Orient and the family unit has been performing together ever since.

Their first family album, cut in 1971, was subsequently nominated for a Grammy Award. On his own, Boone has sold more than 45 million records, capturing 13 gold records (for sales over a million) and a platinum record (for sales over three million).

His longest running hit "Love Letters" stayed on the charts for 34 weeks, a record for a single, and remained first for five consecutive weeks in 1967. During his rise to prominence the noted singer attended Columbia University, graduating Magna Cum Laude in 1958.

Bette Midler is known to most Americans through her current hit "Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy of Company B" but prior to national prominence she was a cult hero of the underground.

In addition to appearances at Upstairs at the Downstairs in New York, Mister Kelley's in Chicago and The Sahara in Las Vegas, she has performed at Carnegie Hall and Lincoln Center. Before striking out on her own, Bette appeared on Broadway in "Fiddler on the Roof" for three years, first in the chorus and then as Tzeitel, in "Salvation" off-Broadway and as the Acid Queen in the Seattle production of the rock opera "Tommy."

Beauty Campaign at Miss Betty's

A beauty campaign is in full swing towards success at Miss Betty's Corner Place, 2339 Illinois Avenue. Asked why, Miss Betty replied, "Because we are helping to regain what the summer heat has taken! We repair the damage of exposure to the summer sun. Our campaign promise: we promote proper skin-dieting treatments to suit individual needs; we shape to fresher hair styles; introducing corrective make-up to even out that fading tan in our specialty." Putting only slightly aside, "For you girls who have sacrificed the care of your hands for the care of that demanding hair flower bed, we have just the thing to make those hands look lovely again."

A manicure. So come on girls, join our successful beauty campaign, call us for an appointment now. Pick up the phone right now, and dial 577-2318. You'll be glad you did.

Miss Anne Ellen Smith, who is in charge of the current yearbook, requested all committee chairmen provide her a list of their committee members. The president reported that National BPW Week will be observed Oct. 21 through Oct. 27 and a District 14 summer officers training meeting will be held at 6:30 p.m. Aug. 29 at the Elm Street Presbyterian Church in Alton. Another district meeting is planned Oct. 28 in Carrollton, Ill.

Vows exchanged in summer weddings

Joan Bunselmeyer becomes Mrs. Mark Hamlin Beasley

Wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Joan Elaine Bunselmeyer and Mark Hamlin Beasley on Aug. 4 in a candlelight setting at St. John Lutheran Church, 3001 St. Clair Ave.

Officiating at the 7 o'clock double ring ceremony was the Rev. J. Louis Settling, pastor of Hope Lutheran Church.

Parents of the bride are Mrs. Lawrence Foy, 2742 Sunset Drive, and Earl Bunselmeyer of Chester, Ill. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Beasley, 3309 Elm St.

Mrs. Phyllis Jarabak, organist, accompanied Miss Marie Beljanski, soloist, who sang, "I Have But One Heart" and "O Perfect Love."

For her wedding, the former Miss Bunselmeyer wore a gown of silk organza with an Empire bodice created of Venice lace. The neckline was high and long full bishop sleeves terminated at the wrists in wide lace cuffs.

Venice lace bordered the deep flounced neckline of the bouffant skirt. Her mantilla veil, edged with matching lace, fell gently into a chapel length train.

She carried long stemmed white roses encircled with baby breath.

Honor attendant, Miss Cindy Kopp, and bridesmaids, Mrs. Carolyn Harlan III, a sister of the bride, Mrs. Carrie Carney and Miss Karen Romline, were dressed alike in maize organza gowns.

The bodices and sleeves were fashioned of white lace and the skirts of maize organza had a wide flounce ruffle at the hemline.

Each carried a bouquet of yellow and white daisies and baby breath. Headpieces matching the gowns were created of maize ribbon and tulle.

Randy Shemwell served as best man. Groomsman and ushers included Ken Yardley, Mark Hatcher, Bob Stevens, Steve Arntner, a cousin of the bride, Ken Janoski and Mike McClain.

The bridal party attended a rehearsal dinner at the Guests were registered by Mrs. Karen Yardley and Miss Nina Hale at a reception held at the Tri-City Post 113 American Legion Hall, 1625 State St.

The couple is residing in Granite City following a wedding trip to the Lodge of the Four Seasons in the Ozarks.

A graduate of Granite City High School, the bride is employed at the First National Bank in St. Louis.

Mr. Beasley also was graduated from Granite City

High School and works at the Lindell Trust Co. in St. Louis.

The bride's mother chose a gown of mint green knit designed in an Empire style, with matching lace and tiny seed pearls accenting the collar and cuffs.

Mrs. Beasley was attired in an ice blue formal length frock with an Empire bodice and full chiffon sleeves. The skirt and matching sleeveless coachman coat were in a floral design, giving a brocade effect.

Both mothers wore white accessories and white orchid corsages.

Katherine Stajduhar is wed in evening ceremony

The Rev. John Polizzi officiated at the 7 o'clock candlelight wedding of Miss Katherine Elizabeth Stajduhar and David Monroe Belmer at the Tri-City Park Tabernacle on Aug. 4.

Miss Stajduhar is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Stajduhar, 2057 Thirteenth St., and the groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Belmer, 2212 Waterman Ave.

Mrs. Reed Johnson, organist, accompanied Mrs. Barbara Schmitz as she sang "Never My Love," "First Time Ever I Saw Your Face," "Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride appeared in a pure white French voile gown fashioned with an Empire bodice of Chiny lace. The high neckline and long sleeves were trimmed in lace and tiny buttons and a self ruffle adorned the cuffs.

A deep border of ruffled lace encircled the hemline and back of the gown, cascading into a full sweep train. Her camelot headpiece of lace and pearls was secured to a tiered veil of bridal illusion. She carried a bouquet of pink Sweetheart roses, white pom poms, white baby breath and purple statice, festooned with white satin streamers.

The bridal attendants included the maid of honor, Miss Patricia Stajduhar, sister of the bride, and Miss Margaret Rehagen, Kathy Davis, Sandra Voss, Linda Peterson and Mrs. Debbie Mathenia, bridesmaids.

They wore gowns of navy blue voile designed with square necklines, outlined with white Schiffl embroidery. The long full shepherdess sleeves were capped with Venice lace and cuffed in matching lace. Lace motifs encircled the waistline and a deep ruffled flounce border created the hem. Each wore a white picture hat trimmed in navy blue.

The flower girl chose a navy blue chiffon frock with white Venice lace trim at the neckline and on the bodice. Pink grosgrain ribbon encircled the waist.

Richard Wagner served as best man, with Bob Ashcraft, Tony Stajduhar, Mike Johnson, Frank Bechtel and Randy Hildreth as groomsmen. Bob Morris and Delbert Tankersley were ushers.

A rehearsal dinner was served in the Fellowship Hall of the church. Mr. and Mrs. Belmer greeted relatives and friends at reception held after the ceremony at the church prior to departing on a wedding trip to Florida.

Mrs. Belmer, a student at Eastern Illinois University in Charleston, plans to transfer to

SSAILED BOARD

Members of the Madison County Animal Health Committee and other members of the county board such as the legislature, environment, and finance committees would have the citizen's believe they are: 1) serving the voiced needs of the county, 2) spending the revenue effectively.

I question both aspects. Consider HB 688 initiated by Paul Reinhold, George Walter, and Homer Hencke. Unless persuaded otherwise, Governor Walker will probably sign it.

HB 688 merely entitles the farmers to more money for livestock killed by dog packs "if it is available." As always, after enforcing leash laws (which gives rise to abandonment of dogs) it is not likely there will ever be adequate money to help farmers.

I would like to help farmers such as Homer Hencke and Paul Reinhold, and hunters as well as dog owners, but this bill will not help because:

1. It does not insure the money to be available now or as the dog packs continue to increase, as indeed they will until a Spay-meter service is implemented.
2. It does not provide a refund to the farmer should his child, wife, guests or help be killed by dogs. How could the revenue share pay for the life of a loved one?
3. It does not prevent livestock or game from being attacked.

4. It does not reduce the dog packs. In fact it actually accommodates and perpetuates dog packs at the expense of responsible contributors.
5. It does impose a perpetual financial burden on responsible citizens without assurance the farmer will get help.

If the members of the county board had supported legislation similar to Los Angeles County, Prince George County, U.S. SB 1032, Penn. SB 740, or the California AB 1056 for spay-meter programs they could have:

1. Humanely reduced the dog pack.
2. Prevented livestock and game from being killed.
3. Protected the farmers family and friends.
4. Prevented farmers and hunters financial losses.
5. Reduced the burden of the responsible revenue contributor.

Will the elected officials ever positively represent the people who need help?

MISS BETTY LOU BAGLY.

There's a lonely little cabin
Sitting silent on a hill
Where we built a dream together
But it was against Gods will
They say time heals all sorrows
But we wonder if its true
Because there's never a day that passes that we do not think of you
And our footsteps seldom wander
To that cabin in the hill
because the dream has gone forever
And we've accepted it as God's will
